PRESENTATION

I am associate professor in political science at the Department of Political, Social and Communicational sciences, Université de Namur. Since January 2020, I am the President of the Research Institute TRANSITIONS. From December 2016 to August 2017, I was a Marie-Curie postdoctoral fellow at the Department of Politics and International Relations, University of Oxford (UK). During 2015-2017, I was part-time lecturer and F.R.S.-FNRS postdoctoral researcher at the Université catholique de Louvain and at the Université de Liège (Belgium). Before that, I was visiting researcher at the University of Edinburgh (UK), the Universitat Pompeu Fabra and the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona (Spain). My research focuses broadly on the access of political elites to power and how they behave once in office, from an historical perspective. More recently, I have extended my research agenda to the study of personalisation of politics and political styles in European democracies since the 1960s. In my projects, I have used both quantitative analyses (with a recent focus on deep learning techniques for content analysis) and qualitative methods (narrative interviews with elites). In 2023, I was awarded an ERC StG funding for the POLSTYLE project. Under F.R.S.-FNRS funding, I am furthermore PI of the Evolv'EP – MEPs Behavior project and the IntraPartyComp project. Before that, I was involved in several collaborative research projects including Belgian Exist Poll 2018, Local Party Offer 2012 & 2018, PartiRep II, Pathways, European Mayor, and ADAPOV. My research was rewarded with the David Constant Medal of Excellence (2010), the John Burton Prize (2011), the Julie Dehay Prize (2012), the Rotary International (2013), and the ABSP prize for the best conference paper (2015) and the NARC fellowship (2022). My work appears in journals such as West European Politics, Party Politics, Electoral Studies, American Behavioral Scientist, Local Government Studies, Publius: Journal of Federalism, Swiss Review of Political Science, Regional & Federal Studies, Government & Opposition, and Representation.
